The Golden Quill

Robots Rule!

Combining Robotics with our topic studies all of the children have been creating some amazing robot pathways, each telling a story of a different living animal. Ethan has chosen his robot to mimic an echidna's movements while Archer's robot is programmed to act like a kiwi! Our kindy students are also having fun with the robots – Allison's has her robot moving like a shark while Imogen's robot moves like a cat!

Gardening Goodies

Yay! Despite the cooler weather we've been back in the school garden – naturally studying living things! We've planted some tomatoes, peas, sunflowers and incredible glass corn. With our school glasshouse we're hoping for a great start for our seedlings.

CSUS

This week we warmly invited Rachel Leary and Theressa Miles into our school to help support our work through a CSUS project (Collaborative Support for Unique Settings). The initiative supported by the Department of Education will enable our school to work closely with nearby small schools to enhance mathematics teaching and learning. I'm really quite excited about the potential that the program has in ensuring our school remains focussed on supporting student growth and success in Maths.

READY SET WRITE - IN THE BARN

In the barn I would see a web. I saw Templeton scratching at the ground, it sounded like a chain saw. The swallows jumping on the roof made a loud sound on the metal. Wilbur was sleeping on my lap.

Hudson Y2

I could see a horse eating hay chomp, chomp, chomp and a spider scared the horse. Allison K

"Make Every Day Count"

IN THE LIBRARY

In the barn a warm, sweet smell from the fresh hay blows around.

The goslings peck their way out of the shell. The sheep chew their cud and look around with their moon like eyes.

The cow's bell twinkles in the sun and makes a sound like music. The brown horse moves about it's small pen slowly. A brown rat scuttles across the old hay. A big hairy spider makes her web slowly and carefully, flies buzz around making the fat, lazy pig sleep. The birds fly fast, in and out of the barn, making chirping sounds. The furry bees buzz about in the long grass collecting sweet nectar from sweet scented flowers that blow about in the wind. The apples fall from the apple tree and land with a thud. The kids laugh and jump about hiding and giggling in the long grass, night falls and all the animals slowly go to sleep completed by the noisy crickets chirping. Beth Y6

I could see a cow rubbing her back in the barn and I also saw a woodpecker. Wilbur was scratching on the wood, the sheep were baaing in the paddock and Mrs Zuckerman was yelling.

"Come pig". "Can you be my friend?" said Wilbur.

Ellyse Y1

In the barn I see the goose, the cow, Charlotte and her web and Wilbur. Rat was being naughty, worse than before. It was a bad day.

Archer Y1

I could see a sheep playing with it's lamb, the horse with it's foal lying in the hay and Wilbur was playing with Fern. Imogen K

In the barn I could see Wilbur and Charlotte and the mean sheep. The animals were so noisy. Ethan Y1

In the barn I could see sheep eating the hay.
I saw Wilbur snuffling in the hay and the cows running as fast as they could. I heard Wilbur sleeping in the manure pile. Lurvy was eating his lunch. Hunter Y3

I could see a horse in the barn, it was sleeping. It would sleep every day and it would not wake up.

FABULOUS FRIDAYS WITH MRS SMYTH

Our Little Digger Adalyn had a wonderful time last Friday with Mrs Smyth and the Hill End Public School students. They created some amazing mixed up animals which gave everyone a laugh. Their masterpieces are now hanging proudly in the classroom! Well done kids.

TERM TOPIC Living World

Our final lessons and projects for our term topic of Living World are well underway.

Our primary students have started on their projects on extinct animals – Hudson has chosen his favourite animal the velociraptor, Hunter is studying the dodo, Eddie has chosen to research T-Rex while Beth has finished her project on Megalodon!

These projects allow students to develop strong research and publishing skills.

Our infant students have been learning about Australian Sea Lions and baby animals.
